

TO TAKE SPEEDY ACTION AGAINST FLORIDA KIDNAPER

All Cause for Delay Erased By "I Did It Alone" Confession

TO ACT ON MONDAY

State's Attorney George A. Worley to Seek Indictments

MIAMI, Fla., June 11—(INS)—All cause for delay erased by the "I did it alone" confession of Franklin Pierce McCall to the kidnap-murder of five-year-old James Bailey Cash, Jr., it appeared today. Prosecution of the 21-year-old truck driver would begin just as quickly as the law was able to move.

State's Attorney George A. Worley said he would seek indictments of McCall on charges of murder and kidnapping—both capital offenses in Florida—before a special grand jury to convene Monday. Trial will follow, Worley said, as soon as possible.

In the midst of the hubbub caused by his detailed confession to G-men, McCall sat quietly in his cell in Dade County Jail, reading a Bible. He appeared unconcerned either by the State's activity to send him to the electric chair or the sensation caused by his confession.

Nor did it seem to bother McCall that a heavy guard was considered necessary outside the jail to protect him against any possible mob violence.

In the confession, reported orally by J. Edgar Hoover, chief of the G-men, McCall said it was not his intention to kill the child, but that Jimmy apparently was suffocated by handkerchiefs placed over his mouth to keep him quiet. Worley stated, however, that any such "unintention" would not alter the contemplated charge of first degree murder.

BRITISHERS URGED TO BUY DEFENSE DEVICES

Manufacturers Open Propaganda Drive to Sell Air Raid Protection Equipment

USE NEWSPAPER "ADS"

By Charles A. Smith

(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)
(Copyright, 1938)

LONDON, June 10—(INS)—Taking advantage of the high pressure Government campaign to make the British nation air raid conscious, manufacturers of defensive contrivances are today putting over a propaganda of their own to sell their wares.

Prudently illustrated ads in the local newspapers urge the merits of so-and-so's gas mask, bomb shelter, or gas-proof chamber, using words which must appear incredible to the average American, far removed from the threat of sudden death or injury from the skies.

A Birmingham firm of fire extinguishers and water pump manufacturers, in an advertisement headed "Be prepared," offers a "Householder's fire pump made to Home Office specifications," and ends with this appeal: "Can you afford not to purchase one, as this is your only family insurance policy?"

A London manufacturer of fireproof paint advertises that timber treated with his paint "will withstand the concentrated flame of an ordinary blow-lamp without bursting into flame," and "will definitely prevent the spread of fire from incendiary bombs."

Advertising its own special type of bomb-proof shelter, a Bristol firm warns the public: "Don't overlook your responsibilities. Our garden fortress shelters six adults, gives greater protection, and less chance of collapsing walls." Somewhat naively, the ad concludes: "The shelter has many other uses, including storing tools, growing mushrooms, children's playhouse, etc."

Full page and half page ads issued by the Association of Cement and Concrete Manufacturers, representing every firm of cement and concrete makers in the country, draw attention to the merits of concrete for building air raid shelters.

Headed "Protection," in large heavy-leaded type, the ad declares that "some form of air raid shelter is in these days as obviously desirable as lifeboats on a ship. . . . The immense strength and impermeability of concrete."

POUR CONCRETE ON SPAN AT FALLSINGTON TUNNEL

Work is Progressing Rapidly and Completion Expected in August

TO BEAUTIFY APPROACH

Pouring of concrete on the approach of the new bridge at Fallsington, which will carry Lincoln Highway traffic over the Pennsylvania Railroad at this point, began this week, according to the Project Engineer, W. R. Eccles.

Work on the entire project has progressed rapidly since it was begun in the early Spring. Eccles states that if work continues at the same rate the bridge will be open to traffic between August 1st and 15th.

The bridge, which will supplant the old by-pass under the railroad, will eliminate the sharp curves which have caused many serious and fatal accidents in the past. The old by-pass will be abandoned, except for those few motorists who find it necessary to use this strip.

The new bridge, one of the largest of its type in this section, measuring approximately 400 feet, is also nearly completed, with sections of the concrete floor already poured.

An entrance will be cut in the approach on the East end of the bridge which will meet directly with the road which leads to the Calhoun street bridge. It will necessitate eastbound traffic crossing the path of westbound cars, but because of the clear view which the new roadway will have accidents will be cut down materially. And likewise, cars approaching the new stretch of road from the Calhoun street bridge road will have less trouble getting on the highway because of the clear view, since the approach will extend out past the end of the gas station which now hides east-bound traffic.

Tentative plans also call for beautification of the approaches by the planting of shrubbery.

ESSAY WINS PRIZE FOR HIGH SCHOOL STUDENT

Raymond Dewees Awarded $10 Prize by Mothers' Ass'n of Bristol Public Schools

READ AT GRADUATION

"Freedom of the Press and Its Importance to All Americans" was the title of the essay which won for Raymond Dewees, a member of the class of 1938, Bristol high school, the $10 prize offered by the Mothers' Association of the schools.

The essay, which was read at the commencement exercises, Tuesday evening, follows:

Freedom of the press—and a true democracy! These two short phrases symbolize all that is fine in America today—one of the few countries in the world where democracy reigns, and the flag of freedom waves for all.

If a real democracy is to exist, and not some weak subterfuge freedom of the press—the voice of the people—is imperative. America has always been recognized as the land of the free, and the Great American Newspaper is the one source of information read alike by rich and poor, young and old, good and bad. If any steps are taken to curb the mighty voice of this powerful educator, the real essence of freedom and democracy will be lost.

The curtailment of the newspaper means the loss of the connecting link between the government and the people—and if this happens, what is democracy but a hollow sounding name? Many countries have placed severe limitations upon the press, and the heads of Germany have gone so far as to dictate to newspapermen the exact words they wish printed—and any editor that seeks to protest or to radicalize is marched to some black prison hole, or before

New Air Conditioning System In Grand Theatre

The Grand Theatre is now "100 per cent air conditioned by the most modern system of its kind in the world for your comfort and health," says Edward Lynn, manager.

"It is arranged so that the building may be properly ventilated every day in the year by means of fresh air circulated by large fans driven by powerful electric motors.

"In the winter time this air is heated to a healthful temperature. In the summer it is cooled and dried by cold water obtained from a large well owned exclusively by the theatre owners.

"No expense has been spared and the air conditioning is the same as is used in practically every modern theatre now being erected.

"The system has been tested in the last few days after months of preparation and at an enormous cost. The old system was one of blowing air into the theatre from large fans in the air room above the large dome. This has been entirely discarded and replaced by what is the very last word in theatre comfort. It is something entirely new to Bristol."

TRUTH AND PROPAGANDA

Propaganda in its original definition is a concerted effort to spread a particular doctrine and may serve a good purpose, as when one speaks of the need of a more active social or religious propaganda. Today, the word is most often used in its secondary meaning which is the sly dissemination of information, ideas or statements, false or true, for the purpose of helping or injuring a person or a cause.

The mysterious workings of nationalistic propaganda are faintly understood by the masses of citizens; we know that such a force exists and that it is one of the major elements in wars and the making of wars. Today, long after the end of the World War, we realize that the stories of the poisoning of wells, the chopping off of babies' hands and other like tales were part of well-organized propaganda, in the derived sense of the word.

One of the speakers at the national congress of Parents and Teachers counseled the parents of the nation to go home and "propaganda proof" their children. He is quoted as saying: "American history should be taught in such a way as to make the boys and girls think about it and contrast our fortunate lot with that of people in backward countries. They must be made propaganda proof and be taught how to avoid demagogues and how to evaluate them properly."

One may echo the second sentence of this contention, but the first brings us up short. If history is to be taught "in such a way" is not that likely to be propaganda?

One man's truth may always be another man's propaganda.

AGAIN, ONLY ONE WILL PAY

The United States Government has made its annual futile gesture. It notified 13 European nations that the annual installment on their debt incurred in the war that was to make the world safe for democracy falls due June 15.

The total collection should amount to $1,891,661,670. The amount expected to be realized will be $161,935.50. That will come from Finland, the only country meeting its obligations.

We have got used to associating billions with debts. Tacking on a few billions to the national debt is just routine and not many know what we get for the money. If we can learn that it doesn't pay to underwrite European quarrels the lesson will be cheap at just under a couple of billions.

Another good insomnia cure is a house guest who seems to think you are a night watchman.

The average man's notion of thrift is to spend the usual amount on tobacco and save on meat.

Couldn't it be a news picture and still not catch the great man in a pose that make him look silly?

An appropriation by a Cape Cod town calls for a lifeguard "who can swim." Because people need the work is no excuse for being unreasonable.

The economics of rearmament: After laying out her last 10 cents for a cap pistol, the eight-year-old had nothing left for a vanilla cone.

crete render it the most satisfactory material for such purpose."

Admitting that such shelters cannot claim complete immunity, the ad asserts "they would afford the necessary protection against blast, splinters, and masonry." The association also points out that "in peace time the shelters can be adapted to useful or recreational purposes."

Other advertisements published in recent weeks include those of firms producing gas filtration and air conditioning plants, and point out how essential it is for the bomb shelter to be adequately ventilated and protected against gas.

An inventor advertises a contrivance for maintaining a supply of pure air in a bomb-proof dug-out in the event of electrical contrivances breaking down. Pulleys attached to an ordinary pedal bicycle revolve fans and force air through filters.

A Midlands firm offers at "bargain rates," small hand pumps, brooms and sand buckets, "officially approved by the Home Office," for home defense against fire in air raids.

Government advertising is more sensational and confined mainly to the exhibition of vividly created models of burning and bomb-stricken streets, publication of handbooks containing hints on what to do and what not to do in an air raid, and pamphlets giving hints on gas detection and protection.

One such exhibition, in swaggar Bond Street, London's miniature Fifth avenue, contains a shop window display of an entire city area, filled with tenements and other congested property, and illustrates what should be done by citizens in the event of an air raid.

Government and municipal handbooks show the right and wrong way of taking cover following an air raid warning, and even contain tips to drivers of horse teams in which drivers are told not to leave their horses to stampered, but to tie the reins to a street lamp or other convenient post before leaving them.

Less grandiose, but more to the point, are ads chalked up by handymen in many cities and towns, offering their services to dig holes in backyards, help erect shelters, or even to put up boards over windows.

And so great is the public desire to protect itself, that millions of dollars are being expended in scores of ways as Britons try to make themselves and their families as immune as possible to death from the skies.

(Note: The fourth and last article in this series will describe how Britain will be warned of future air raids and shepherded to cover.—INS.)

some harsh stone wall in the cold, gray dawn, as they do in Russia.

In the history of the United States, the only time when the government really bore down hard on the press was during those trying years of 1917-18, when everything and everybody was in a mad panic, and any person or paper that attracted unfavorable attention by even daring to hint that the Allies might be at fault, instead of that cruel German nation seeking to crush democracy in the iron grip of its mailed fist, was likely to find himself before a skeptical and unsympathetic judge, and a disbelieving and fervently patriotic jury—if he was fortunate enough to have a jury. The government had a bad case of jitters, and it was a little while recovering.

But during the years following the Great War, the press has been pretty well ignored by the government, left to its own devices more or less, except during election times, when, as always, the newspaper was the great campaigner. Many an election has been turned from one candidate to another, because of the stand taken by the newspapers on the platforms put forth by the various parties.

The newspaper carries the voice of the government to people where no wires carry news—people who otherwise would be ignorant of the events and happenings in the outside world—happenings sometime cruel and shocking indeed, but nevertheless happenings with which every real American should be acquainted.

It is the newspaper that aids the government in its war on crime; the newspaper that carries the stories of floods, earthquakes and tornadoes to all corners of the earth—and the newspaper that brings the happenings from the war-torn countries of Europe and Asia into the homes of hundreds of thousands of average citizens, many of whom are in doubt of the real issue at stake in the never-ceasing struggle. Without the newspaper, our world would indeed be dull, for even the screaming headlines of the scandal sheets carry a message for all who look, and add the zest that is the flavor of life.

Public pressure took Sex out of the movies, but the newspaper continues to carry large headlines in black print, with sensational stories of murders, kidnappings, hold-ups, love-nests and divorces. When the police raid another gambling house, it's merely another small paragraph at the bottom of the page, but when some "little green book" discloses quite a number of policemen and detectives as recipients of bribes in the numbers racket, it's news! And so it goes, stories, headlines everyday—stories that are sometimes not exactly worth reading, being little short of trash, but stories that nevertheless bring home to us with convincing force the necessity for a completely uncontrolled and unbiased press.

Indeed, any serious attempt to curb or curtail the newspapers would arouse such a storm of criticism and abuse that the government must needs pause before attempting anything so radical. Long may the flag of democracy and freedom wave over our beautiful country—and long may the freedom of the press stand as a shining tribute to a democracy unequaled today.

"Main Street" with the lid off forms the exciting and humorous setting for "Scandal Street," the new Paramount picture which opens today at the Bristol Theatre with Lew Ayres and Louise Campbell topping an all-star cast. Roscoe Karns, Porter Hall, Edgar Kennedy and Elizabeth Patterson are seen in this story of how jealousy traps a beautiful young girl in a murder scandal.

Louise Campbell is the girl in the case, whose alarming beauty and charm upset the ordinary quiet and security of "Midburg." Alarmed at having such an attractive stranger brought into daily contact with their wives of the community keep their minds alert and their tongues active about the comings and goings of the beautiful stranger.

Seven new songs, destined for the hit class, will be heard for the first time Sunday, when "Doctor Rhythm," Bing Crosby's new comedy with Beatrice Lillie, Mary Carlisle, Andy Devine, Rufe Davis and other noted players, opens at the Bristol Theatre.

Four of these will be sung by Bing himself, while the fifth will be played by Louise Armstrong and his orchestra. In addition there will be two numbers introduced by Miss Lillie. Bing will sing "My Heart Is Taking Lessons," "On the Sentimental Side," "This Is My Night To Dream" and "Only A Gypsy Knows" all from the pens of the song writing team of James V. Monaco and John Burke. The title song, "Doctor Rhythm," also written by Monaco and Burke, is played by Louise Armstrong and his orchestra, with characteristic hot licks on the cornet by Armstrong.

Kay Francis and Pat O'Brien together in films for the first time! Thirty-four major sets in one modern city locale! Thirty-seven major changes of costume for Kay! A cast of 32 name players! Thirty weeks from story preparation to finished cut. At the Grand Sunday.

But that's enough in the thirties! These highlights are from Warner Bros.' newest and most ambitious starring vehicle for raven-haired Kay Francis, "Women Are Like That."

Based on A. H. Z. Carr's national magazine story, "Return from Limbo," it was scenarized by Horace Jackson and directed by Stanley Logan, who scored such a success with "First Lady."

BRISTOL AND BUCKINGHAM SCHOOL NINES TO PLAY THREE-GAME SERIES FOR LOWER BUCKS DIAMOND HONORS

A three-game series for the championship of the Lower Bucks County Scholastic League will be played next week between Bristol and Buckingham in a long delayed play-off. This arrangement was agreed upon by officials of the two participating schools.

Bristol, by topping Langhorne High last Monday, 4-2, in the play-off, won the lower division title of the circuit, while Buckingham High topped the honors in the upper section of the league.

The schedule cards games for Monday, Wednesday and Thursday. The opening games will be played on the Buccaneers home field on Monday afternoon at 2:45, with the local tilt being carded for the Landreth Ball Park on Wednesday afternoon at 2:30. If a third game is necessary, it will be played on a neutral field, the site of which has not as yet been selected.

Buckingham has been awaiting the answer to the question, "Who will they meet for the championship?" ever since they captured the title three weeks ago. Since then, rain has postponed lower division games, and when the tie resulted in the league, another week of waiting for the series resulted, as the Buckingham Seniors are in New York City for a three day sight-seeing trip and returned last night.

The Buccaneers won the crown of the upper section of the league for the first time since they have become a member of the circuit, and in so doing, they dethroned the monarchs of a five-year reign New Hope held in that division. Buckingham tied New Hope for the title in that end of the loop but were awarded the circuit crown without a play-off by the league when New Hope violated a P. I. A. A. coaching rule. New Hope's forfeiture, however, placed the Southampton Greyhounds in a tie for the league leadership as the clubs went into their final game, which was played at Buckingham and which the Bucks won, 5-2, to annex the championship.

Bristol, on the other hand, made the most of two extremely rare but most favorable "breaks" to win the laurels in this end of the circuit. In the first place, they were fortunate to hold the Langhorne Redskins to a 0-0 tie after Bill McCahan had hurled a no-hit, no-run game over that stretch. The tilt was replayed, Bristol came from behind to nose out the Reds, 2-1, in 8 innings. The other break was a presentation of a loss handed them by the Morrisville Bulldogs, 1-0, that was transferred to the win column of the ledger when the latter forfeited seven of its eight games.

CUMMINGS DECIDES TO DRIVE AT LANGHORNE

Wild Bill Cummings, lanky Hoosier speed demon and winner of the Indianapolis 500 mile race in 1934, has decided to return to the eastern speed wars this season and is bringing his Miller car to Philadelphia for the final Langhorne auto race on Sunday, June 19th, Hankinson Speedways, sponsors, just announced.

It was at Langhorne back in 1920 that Cummings first won national recognition as a big time driver and earned the appellation of "Wild Bill" through his exhibitions of daredevilry. It was that year that he first drove in the Indianapolis 500 mile event where he finished fifth at the wheel of Pete DePalolo's Duesenberg. In 1923 he qualified for the pole position at Indianapolis and led the race until forced out with motor trouble.

Now Cummings is chief pilot for Mike Boyle's great Chicago racing stable and has at his command the finest racing equipment in America. Grooming his steel juggernauts for him is the famous Cotton Henning, considered the cleverest of all racing mechanics.

Not only will Wild Bill drive in the sprint and distance races on the Langhorne program but will also figure in the national five-cornered match race in which five of the greatest speed ace in the country will clash. The race is to be run in three heats of five miles each with an added money purse of $2,000 as the inducement.

There will be more than a dozen of the outstanding Indianapolis speedway stars in the line up at Langhorne, June 19th, Hankinson has announced. In this group will be at least five of the men who carried away the bulk of the $60,000 Memorial day purse. Clashing with them will be a score of the greatest drivers that can be mustered from the eastern racing circuits.

LANDRETH SEEDS DEFEATS VINELAND IX

Playing at Vineland, N. J., last night the Landreth Seeds defeated the home team in a fast and closely-contested twilight game, 4-3.

George Dougherty and Camel Breslin were the big guns for the Farmers each driving in half of their runs. Dougherty reached first four times out of five trips to the platter, three times on hits and once on a pass, while Breslin scored three runs and made two hits, one a grand slam over the center field fence.

The Seeds scored their first run in the second on Breslin's pass, Barcalow's hit, a pass to Walters and Dougherty's hard smash—which Narleski fumbled.

Hagen's hit, a base on balls and Rainbone's three base hit sent the home team to the front with two runs in the fourth inning.

Landreth's took the lead in the sixth on Broderick's two base hit to right field and Breslin's home run.

Breslin's hit, Barcalow's sacrifice and a hit by Dougherty gave the Farmers their fourth run in the ninth.

The home team threw a scare into the visitors in the ninth, when Rainbone hit safely with one out. Walters threw Tomasso's roller wild to Griggs, after Norton had fled out, putting runners on first and second. Vogeled scored Rainbone with a hit, with the tying and winning runs on the bases. Narleski fled to Breslin for the final out.

Walters, a product of a Philadelphia high school, was Landreth's pitching selection and he has all the earmarks of being a find.

The Farmers thrilled the home crowd with their flashy fielding. Liberator accepting nine chances.

WISSINOMING NINE TO PLAY LANDRETH

Tomorrow afternoon at Landreth Ball Park, Wissinoming, at present away out in front in the Philadelphia City League, will oppose Landreth.

Last night Howard Wood, manager of the Philadelphia team, had not decided just who will pitch, but all his twirlers are in pretty good shape, as up to a few days ago he had a winning streak of eight straight games. Manager Landreth will pitch either Carey or Ashby, Carey having won both games he pitched and Ashby winning on his only appearance in the box.

Wissinoming beat the Farmers here last Fall but in the only game played this year, Landreth won, 3 to 1. This should be a very good game.

Thursday night at 6:15, Johnson's Colored Stars of Atlantic City will be the attraction.

"JAKE" PAUL TANGLES THE WORSTED SPINNERS

Two hits, one of the scratch variety, was the best that the William H. Grundy Company nine could muster off the slants of Jake Paul, last evening on the Grundy diamond as the Odd Fellows blanked the woeen makers, 10-0, for the latter's twelfth straight loss.

Moss made the only clean hit off Paul. The other was a scribble along third base which DiBlassio beat out. In the six innings played, only twenty-one batters faced Paul. He struck out nine.

Meanwhile, the Odd Fellows batsmen were fattening their batting averages at the expense of Ralph Narleski and Al Capriotti. Narleski went out in the fourth after he had yielded seven runs and eight hits. The losers had four errors charged to them.

Dick, Dewnap, Purcell, Watson and Paul, had two hits each to lead the winning club at the plate.

The victory put the Oddies in third place, one game behind second place, and one and one-half games behind the league leaders.

ROHM & HAAS NINE CUTS ST. ANN'S LEAD

The Rohm and Haas nine sliced the St. Ann's margin on first place in the Bristol Twilight League to one-half game last evening as it trimmed the Superior Zinc nine, 8-3, on the Maple Beach diamond.

From the start it was evident that the chemical workers meant business. They hopped on Punkie Zeffries for five runs in the initial canto and this was really enough for victory as Eddie Sullivan had his hooks in line working order to set back the zinc smelters.

Ten safe hits whistled off the bldgcons of the Maple Beach Club. Four of these with a pass and an error came in that first inning when five tallies scampered across the plate. Of the ten hits made, not one was for an extra base.

Punkie did a good job with his stick, getting three out of three but his pitching was worthless and he had to be relieved by Johnny Bragg before the side could be retired in the first.

The defeat shoved the Superior team down to fourth place. It was announced last night that the games originally scheduled for Tuesday, May 24, will be played next Wednesday night.
